CEO – Chris Burke

Chris has spent more than 30 years in China and travelled extensively around the globe. Chris's expertise started in Australia with IBM as a Customer Engineer for mainframe computer systems, where he became a support engineer and worked with the largest financial institutions in Australia. Chris then joined Racal Guardata as Technical Director and initiated the growth of this major UK Company's Asia operations, including with Maybank in Malaysia, Japan, Hong Kong and Austral-Asia. Chris then saw an opportunity in China with the burgeoning banking branch infrastructure and created card and passbook technology connected to IBM Minicomputers with country-wide success with all major banking groups.

The successful IPO Stock Market Listings of Technology companies in UK and Australia then allowed Chris to focus on his inventiveness and banking technology expertise, combining together to create significantly valuable patents.

Chris believes the opportunity with the combination of biometrics and health certification will become mandatory in all global markets. The global landscape for identification, access and payments has changed substantially since the global pandemic in 2019. Chris now applies his expertise to the integration of biometrics and health as seamless technology solutions within his patent additions.
